

Mess. My selfe haue Letters of the selfe-same Tenure.

Bru. With what Addition.

Mess. That by proscription, and billes of Outlawrie, Octanius, Antony, and Lepidus, haue put to death, an hundred Senators.

Bru. Theirin our Letters do not well agree: Mine speake of seenty Senators, that dy'de By their proscriptions, Cicero being one.

Cassi. Cicero one?

Mess. Cicero is dead, and by that order of proscription Had you your Letters from your wife, my Lord?

Bru. No Messala.

Mess. Nor nothing in your Letters writ of her?

Bru. Nothing Messala.

Mess. That me thinkes is strange.

Bru. Why aske you?

Heere you ought of her, in yours?

Mess. No my Lord.

Bru. Now as you are a Roman tell me true.

Mess. Then like a Roman, beare the truth I tell; For certaine she is dead, and by strange manner.

Bru. Why farewell Portia: We must die Messala: With meditating that she must dye once, I haue the patience to endure it now.

Mess. Euen so great men, great losses shold indure.

Cassi. I haue as much of this in Art as you, But yet my Nature could not beare it so.

Bru. Well, to our worke alieue. What do you thinke Of marching to Philippi presently.

Cassi. I do not thinke it good.

Bru. Your reason?

Cassi. This it is:

'Tis better that the Enemy seeke vs, So shall he waste his meanes, weary his Souldiers, Doing himselfe offence, whilst we lying still, Are full of rest, defence, and nimblenesse.

Bru. Good reasons must of force giue place to better: The people 'twixt Philippi, and this ground Do stand but in a forc'd affection:

For they haue grud'd vs Contribution.

The Enemy, marching along by them,

By them shall make a fuller number vp,

Come on refreshed, new added, and encourag'd:

From which aduantage shall we cut him off.

If at Philippi we do face him there,

These people at our backe.

Cassi. Heere me good Brother.

Bru. Vnder your pardon. You must note beside,

That we haue tride the vtmost of our Friends:

Our Legions are brim full, our cause is ripe,

The Enemy encreaseth every day,

We at the height, are readie to decline.

There is a Tide in the affayres of men,

Which taken at the Flood, leades on to Fortune:

Omitted, all the voyage of their life,

Is bound in Shallowes, and in Miseries.

On such a full Sea are we now a-flout,

And we must take the current when it serues,

Or loose our Ventures.

Cassi. Then with your will go on: wee'l along

Our felues, and meet them at Philippi.

Bru. The deepe of night is crept vpon our talke,

And Nature must obey Necessitie,

Which we will nigard with a little rest:

There is no more to say.

Cassi. No more, good night,

Early to morrow will we rise, and hence.

Enter Lucius.

Bru. Lucius my Gowne: farewell good Messala,

Good night Titinius: Noble, Noble Cassius,

Good night, and good repose.

Cassi. O my deere Brother:

This was an ill beginning of the night:

Neuer come such diuision 'twene our soules:

Let it not Bruis.

Enter Lucius with the Gowne.

Bru. Euery thing is well.

Cassi. Good night my Lord.

Bru. Good night good Brother.

Tit. Messa. Good night Lord Bruis.

Bru. Farewell euery one.

Giue me the Gowne. Where is thy Instrument?

Luc. Heere in the Tent.

Bru. What, thou speak'st drowzily?

Poore knaue I blame thee not, thou art ore-watch'd,

Call Claudio, and some other of my men,

He haue them sleepe on Cushions in my Tent.

Luc. Varrus, and Claudio.

Enter Varrus and Claudio.

Varr. Cals my Lord?

Bru. I pray you sirs, lye in my Tent and sleepe,

It may be I shall raise you by and by

On businesse to my Brother Cassius.

Varr. So please you, we will stand,

And watch your pleasure.

Bru. I will not haue it so: Lye downe good sirs,

It may be I shall otherwise bethinke me.

Looke Lucius, heere's the booke I sought for so:

I put it in the pocket of my Gowne.

Luc. I was sure your Lordship did not giue it me.

Bru. Beare with me good Boy, I am much forgetfull,

Canst thou hold vp thy heame eyes a-while,

And touch thy Instrument a straine or two.

Luc. I my Lord, an't please you.

Bru. It does my Boy:

I trouble thee too much, but thou art willing.

Luc. 'Tis my duty Sir.

Bru. I should not vrge thy duty past thy might,

I know yong bloods looke for a time of rest.

Luc. I haue slept my Lord already.

Bru. It was well done, and thou shalt sleepe againe:

I will not hold thee long. If I do liue,

I will be good to thee.

Musicke, and a Song.

This is a sleepe Tunc: O Mord'rous slumbler!

Layest thou thy Leaden Mace vpon my Boy,

That playes thee Musicke? Gentle knaue good night:

I will not do thee so much wrong to wake thee:

If thou do'st nod, thou break'st thy Instrument,

He take it from thee, and (good Boy) good night.

Let me see, let me see; is not the Lease turn'd downe

Where I left reading? Heere it is I thinke.

Enter the Ghost of Caesar.

How ill this Taper burnes. Ha! Who comes heere?

I thinke it is the weakenesse of mine eyes

That shapeth this monstrous Apparition.

It comes vpon me: Art thou any thing?

Art thou some God, some Angell, or some Diuell,

That mak'st my blood cold, and my haire to stare?

Speake to me, what thou art.

Ghost. Thy euill Spirit Bruis?

Bru. Why com'st thou?

Ghost. To tell thee thou shalt see me at Philippi.

Bru. Well: then I shall see thee againe?

Ghost. I, at Philippi.

Bru. Why I will see thee at Philippi then:

Now I haue taken heart, thou vanishest.

Ill Spirit, I would hold more talke with thee.

Boy, Lucius, Varrus, Claudio, sirs: Awake:

Claudio.

Luc. The strings my Lord, are false.

Bru. He thinkes he still is at his Instrument.

Lucius, awake.

Luc. My Lord.

Bru. Did'st thou dreame Lucius, that thou so cryedst out?

Luc. My Lord, I do not know that I did cry.

Bru. Yes that thou did'st: Did'st thou see any thing?

Luc. Nothing my Lord.

Bru. Sleepe againe Lucius: Sirra Claudio, Fellow,

Thou: Awake.

Varr. My Lord.

Claudio. My Lord.

Bru. Why did you so cry out sirs, in your sleepe?

Both. Did we my Lord?

Bru. I: saw you any thing?

Varr. No my Lord, I saw nothing.

Claudio. Nor I my Lord.

Bru. Go, and commend me to my Brother Cassius:

Did him set on his Powres betimes before,

And we will follow.

Both. It shall be done my Lord.

Exeunt

Actus Quintus.

Enter Octanius, Antony, and their Army.

Octa. Now Antony, our hopes are answered,

You said the Enemy would not come downe,

But keepe the Hilles and vpper Regions:

It proues not so: their battailes are at hand,

They meane to warne vs at Philippi heere:

Answering before we do demand of them.

Ant. Tut I am in their bosomes, and I know

Wherefore they do it: They could be content

To visit other places, and come downe

With fearefull brauery: thinking by this face

To fasten in our thoughts that they haue Courage;

But 'tis not so.

Enter a Messenger.

Mess. Prepare you Generals,

The Enemy comes on in gallant shew:

Their bloody signe of Battell is hung out,

And something to be done immediately.

Ant. Octanius, leade your Battaile softly on

Vpon the left hand of the euen Field.

Octa. Vpon the right hand I keepe thou the left.

Ant. Why do you crosse me in this exigent.

Octa. I do not crosse you: but I will do so. March.

Drum. Enter Brutus, Cassius, & their Army.

Bru. They stand, and would haue parley.

Cassi. Stand fast Titinius, we must out and talke.

Octa. Mark Antony, shall we giue signe of Battaile?

Ant. No Caesar, we will answer on their Charge.

Make forth, the Generals would haue some words.

Oct. Stirre not vntill the Signall.

Bru. Words before blowes: is it so Countrymen?

Octa. Not that we loue words better, as you do.

Bru. Good words are better then bad strokes Octanius.

Ant. In your bad strokes Brutus, you giue good words

Witnesse the hole you made in Caesars heart,

Crying long liue, Haile Caesar.

Cassi. Antony,

The posture of your blowes are yet vknowne;

But for your words, they rob the Hible Bees,

And leaue them Honey-lesse.

Ant. Not stinglesse too.

Bru. O yes, and soundlesse too:

For you haue stolne their buzzing Antony,

And very wisely threat before you sting.

Ant. Villains: you did not so, when your vile daggers

Hackt one another in the fides of Caesar:

You shew'd your teethes like Apes,

And fawn'd like Hounds,

And bow'd like Bondmen, kissing Caesars feete;

Whilst damned Cassa, like a Curie, behinde

Strooke Caesar on the necke. O you Flatterers.

Cassi. Flatterers? Now Brutus thanke your selfe,

This tongue had not offended so to day,

If Cassius might haue rul'd.

Octa. Come, come, the cause, if arguing make vs swet,

The prooffe of it will turne to redder drops:

Looke, I draw a Sword against Conspirators,

When thinke you that the Sword goes vp againe?

Neuer till Caesars three and thirtie wounds

Be well aueng'd; or till another Caesar

Haue added slaughter to the Sword of Traitors.

Bru. Caesar, thou canst not dye by Traitors hands,

Vnlesse thou bring'st them with thee.

Octa. So I hope:

I was not borne to dye on Brutus Sword.

Bru. O if thou wert the Noblest of thy Ssraine,

Yong-man, thou could'st not dye more honourable.

Cassi. A peeuis School-boy, worthles of such Honor

Ioy'd with a Masker, and a Reueller.

Ant. Old Cassius still.

Octa. Come Antony: away:

Defiance Traitors, hurle we in your teeth.

If you dare fight to day, come to the Field;

If not, when you haue stomackes.

Exit Octanius, Antony, and Army

Cassi. Why now blow winde, swell Billow,

And swimme Barke:

The Storme is vp, and all is on the hazard.

Bru. Ho Lucillius, hearke, a word with you.

Lucillius and Messala stand forth.

Luc. My Lord.

Cassi. Messala.

Messa. What sayes my Generall?

Cassi. Messala, this is my Birth-day: as this very day

Was Cassius borne. Giue me thy hand Messala:

Be thou my witnesse, that against my will

(As Pompey was) am I compell'd to set

Vpon one Battell all our Liberties.

You know, that I held Epicurus strong,

And his Opinion: Now I change my minde,

And partly credit things that do preface.

Commig from Sardis, on our former Ensigne

Two mighty Eagles fell, and there they perch'd,

Gorging and feeding from our Soldiers hands,

Who
